AT A GLANCE

Overview

The Cumulus 30-Year Fixed Mortgage is a fully amortizing home loan with an interest rate that is fixed at closing and does not change for the life of the loan. Your principal and interest payment is the same in year one as it is in year thirty — predictable protection against rising rates. Cumulus offers conforming loans up to the 2026 FHFA national baseline of $806,500 and Jumbo loans above that amount, on primary residences, second homes, and investment properties.

WHY A 30-YEAR FIXED

Key benefits

FIXED RATE FOR 30 YEARS Fixed rate for 30 years Your interest rate is set at closing and never changes. Your monthly principal and interest payment is fully predictable. Your actual APR depends on FICO, loan-to-value, debt-to-income, property type, occupancy, and whether you elect discount points. Rates are subject to market movement and are not locked until you request a rate lock in writing.

COMMON QUESTIONS

Frequently asked questions

Should I pay discount points?

Points make sense when you plan to hold the mortgage long enough that monthly-payment savings exceed the up-front cost. The breakeven on 1 point (~0.25% rate reduction) is typically 5–7 years. Shorter horizons generally favor zero-point pricing.

What's the difference between conforming and jumbo?

Conforming loans are eligible for sale to Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac and are subject to the 2026 FHFA national baseline limit of $806,500 in most counties. Jumbo loans exceed that limit and are held in Cumulus's portfolio.

Can I avoid PMI with less than 20% down?

Cumulus offers Lender-Paid Mortgage Insurance (LPMI), Split-Premium MI, and an 80/10/10 piggyback option via a simultaneous HELOC on eligible transactions. A Mortgage Advisor can model the trade-offs for your situation.

How long is my rate lock good for?

Standard rate locks are 30, 45, or 60 days. You may extend an expiring lock for a fee. One-time float-down is available if market rates drop more than 0.25% before closing.

When should I think about refinancing later?

A common rule of thumb is to refinance when you can lower your rate by 0.75–1.00% and will hold the loan long enough to recoup the closing costs. Cumulus mortgage clients receive ongoing refinance monitoring alerts in the app.
