AT A GLANCE

Overview

The Cumulus Home Equity Loan (HELOAN) is a fixed-rate, closed-end second-lien loan. The full loan amount is disbursed at closing and repaid over a 5-, 10-, 15-, or 20-year term in equal monthly payments of principal and interest. It's ideal for a one-time, known-amount need: a single major home renovation, consolidation of higher-rate debt, or funding a specific life event. Because the rate and term are fixed, the monthly payment does not change.

HELOAN OR HELOC?

A HELOAN makes sense when you have a one-time, known-dollar-amount need and want the certainty of a fixed rate and fixed payment. A HELOC makes sense when you need flexible, ongoing access to funds over time at a variable rate. Both are secured by your home, and many homeowners hold both — a HELOAN for a completed project and a HELOC for future flexibility.

COMMON QUESTIONS

Frequently asked questions

What's the difference between a HELOAN and a cash-out refinance?

A HELOAN is a second lien that leaves your first mortgage untouched. A cash-out refinance replaces your first mortgage with a new, larger one. If your current first-mortgage rate is below today's market rate, a HELOAN typically preserves that low rate while still letting you access equity.

Can I use HELOAN proceeds for anything?

Yes, proceeds can be used for any lawful purpose — home improvements, debt consolidation, tuition, medical expenses, or other. Note that tax deductibility of the interest generally applies only to funds used to buy, build, or substantially improve the home securing the loan.

How long does the process take?

Most HELOANS close within 30 calendar days of application, depending on appraisal turn time and complexity. Cumulus provides status updates in the app throughout the process.

Is there a prepayment penalty?

No prepayment penalty in the usual sense. However, Cumulus recoups the closing costs it paid on your behalf if you close the loan within 36 months of origination.

Can I roll the cost of home improvements into the loan?

Yes. Many HELOAN borrowers fund a planned renovation by borrowing the estimated project cost. The full loan amount is disbursed at closing; it is not draw-based like a HELOC.
