RELATIONSHIP FRAME

Customer context

Use this snapshot before a branch appointment or outbound call where the banker needs a one-page view of relationship health.

Retail Financial Snapshot is designed for retail banker and customer use during the quarterly or before advice conversation motion. The document should orient the owner, clarify the current relationship frame, and convert scattered signals into a practical plan that can be reviewed before customer contact.

The core content emphasizes relationship summary, goal framing, needs signals. These areas are intentionally operational: they help the personal banker understand what is known, what still needs validation, and which follow-up steps should be assigned before the relationship moves forward.

The document is not an automated decision record. It is a generated working draft that should be checked against the system of record, then refined by the banker, advisor, service specialist, or implementation owner who is accountable for the relationship.

Working posture Use this as a content-heavy planning document. It is meant to collect context, evidence, actions, and controls in one place before the owner decides what should become customer-facing language.

|--------------------------|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Relationship depth (68%) | Developing signal | two active products. Useful for planning and prioritization; review supporting evidence before acting.     |
| Savings momentum (61%)   | Developing signal | stable but below target. Useful for planning and prioritization; review supporting evidence before acting. |
| Service risk (34%)       | Needs review      | low open friction. Treat as a gap or risk indicator until the owner confirms the underlying data.          |
| Offer fit (76%)          | Strong signal     | conversation-ready. Can anchor the conversation, but still requires source validation.                     |
